

Exercise 2.23

In the new C++11 standard. We can use if statement to determine if `ptr == nullptr`. If `ptr` does not equal to `nullptr`, pointer points to a valid object as long as pointer is initialized to point to an object.