

Exercise 2.19

1. Reference must be initialized. Pointers do not need to be initialized.
2. Pointer itself is an object, and it can point to other objects; reference is not an object, and it cannot bound to other objects.